Risk management is at the heart of what we do

Often the important business of assessing safety risks in an organisation can get put off until the worst happens. If you're looking for a company with a proven track record with respect to health and safety, HR support, food safety and environmental management, we can help.

At Sentinel Safety Solutions Ltd we're regularly called in to assist when there's been a serious incident or accident, or when legal proceedings are underway. Our consultants are skilled and experienced at handling these matters professionally and in a business-focused way.

However, we believe that prevention is better than cure and our ethos is to work with companies to ensure that their business and staff are protected, by looking at the potential risks before an incident occurs.

We can then offer hands-on practical help that improves safety levels in the workplace and means that exposure to risk is kept to a minimum. This has the added benefit of achieving lower insurance premiums. Additionally, with our experience in a wide range of regulatory laws, we can highlight the impact of a company's operations across a number of disciplines and offer sensible advice in good time to avoid problems. This offers peace of mind so that you can focus on running and growing your business in the knowledge that your risks are being effectively managed.

We have retained Sentinel Safety Solutions to provide us with our Health and Safety consultancy, training and competent person advice since 2008. We are extremely pleased with their professionalism and high degree of competence and we feel that this adds real value to our business. Therefore, we have no hesitation in recommending their services.

Tailored services to suit our clients

Sentinel was established in 2000 with the aim of providing tailored risk management services for all our clients. Drawing on extensive experience in enforcing the law and the knowledge of how risk is managed across a wide range of industries, we've helped many clients to reduce their exposure to risk and therefore make substantial savings in their insurance costs.

Our goal is always to provide our clients with practical, relevant and clear advice rather than piles of paperwork and files they'll never look at. We develop documented risk management systems that are tailored to reflect the needs of each client. We work closely with key managers and staff members to prepare risk based documentation such as risk assessments, method statements and HACCP plans, to assist clients to meet their legal obligations. We also offer training to ensure that they know how to implement the documented systems in practice. This means that they can deal with enforcement officers with confidence and have the means to defend spurious claims for compensation.

Our consultants have many years' of experience, some of which was in enforcement and as expert witnesses. They are highly qualified and experienced specialists in their areas of expertise so they are well placed to provide you with hands-on advice that is right for your business. We take pride in developing long-term relationships with clients and act as their outsourced risk management department.

Sentinel Safety have provided us with a range of consultancy services since 2006. We find their independent expertise compliments our own established management systems for safeguarding consumers extremely well.

Be profitable. Be safe. Stay out of court

Risk management is vital to ensure you're providing a safe working environment that meets legal requirements and industry standards. However, the safest company in the world won't be able to best serve its employees if it isn't profitable. That's why our advice always takes into account the commercial aspect of your business alongside the risk management. We have extensive experience of providing practical solutions to the challenges faced by clients in a way that enables them to demonstrate legal compliance without hindering the day to day running of their businesses. This comes from a thorough knowledge of the law and how this is applied in practice, some of which was gained from our work as expert witnesses in undertaking investigations, preparing reports and giving evidence in court.

Why work with us?

- You'll get tailored solutions to health and safety, HR, food safety and environmental management matters that suit your individual requirements
- We'll ensure your documentation meets all your legal obligations without getting in the way so you can run your business
- If your existing or potential clients require you to meet certain industry standards, we can assist you. We are experienced at helping our clients gain a range of nationally and internationally recognised certifications

Their training is first rate and means we have one less thing to worry about. They are always at the end of the phone to offer advice and we would happily recommend them to anyone.*

The one-stop shop for risk management services

While the traditional approach to meeting the requirements of a range of different regulatory laws is to treat them separately, we have found that an integrated approach to risk management leads to significant benefits for clients. We know that there are similarities and cross-overs between the risks associated with health and safety, HR, food safety and environmental management. We also have extensive experience in the application of the insurance sector across a diverse range of industries. For this reason, for many of our clients we are the first point of call for a wide range of risk management services.
